

The FCC should not implement any proposal that would lessen the protections provided under Indiana's Telephone Privacy law. Since my name was put on Indiana's Privacy List (11 months) I have only received one unsolicited telemarketing call. I used to receive three or four of these calls a week, as well as numerous "hang ups" left on my answering machine during the day when I was at work. It is wonderful to know that when you answer the phone it is not one of those awful telemarketers and is instead a call I am expecting or someone I know. I value my privacy. Don't lessen the effectiveness of Indiana's Telephone Privacy law.

Melissa K. Erny